Child-Birth Group Formed to Aid Those Having Babies at Home

It used to be that babies were always born at home, sometimes with the help of the family doctor and sometimes not.

Then came modern medicine with its enormous break-throughs in anaesthesiology, bacteriology and immunology and its emphasis on antiseptic cleanliness. Specialization and professionalism arose in the practice of medicine along with a building boom in hospitals. The expectant mother went to an obstetrician for nine months of pre-natal care and then was delivered of her baby at the hospital with which the doctor was affiliated.

Doctor knew best, the hospital was well equipped and she submitted willingly to being "knocked-out," grateful to know no discomfort. Afterward she turned to another specialist, the pediatrician, who in the absence of female members of the earlier extended family, instructed her in the care and feeding of her newborn infant.

It is not surprising, in today's climate of greater assertiveness on the part of women and greater knowledge of the way their bodies work, that many pregnant women are now looking for a greater role in the birthing process. Birth Alternatives Inc. is a recently incorporated group of Princeton women keenly interested in the whole subject of child-birth.

Consisting of a core of 10 or 12 mothers who meet once a month or more, the group has a two-pronged thrust. It is a source of information and support to couples who want, for financial or philosophical reasons, to have their baby at home, and it is also actively seeking to found a birth center as a midway solution for those who don't want a traditional hospital birth and aren't prepared for a home birth.

The group estimates that 10 babies were born at home in the Princeton area over the past year, including a birth in the Butler apartments that was televised by CBS. One of the members, Pat Koch, wife of a post-doctoral fellow at Forrestal, was interviewed last week as she waited for the imminent arrival of her second baby in their Hibben apartment. While her 2½ year old daughter, Ysidra, who was born in an Austin, Tex., hospital, played beside her, and one of the two midwife friends who have come up from Texas to attend the birth listened, Mrs. Koch spoke quietly and cogently about her reasons for having this next baby at home.

"It isn't that I had a really bad experience in the hospital," she said, although it was upsetting to her that the doctor ordered an intravenous injection for which there was difficulty in finding the vein and that she was given an episiotomy, a

SAVOR CHABLIS WITH OYSTERS OR SEAFOOD

Chablis (Shab-lee) is located southeast of Paris, in the department of Yonne. Chablis is a truly outstanding dry, white wine with an austere, flinty quality and is produced from the Pinot chardonnay grape. A true Chablis is the driest and palest of table wines, with a pale straw-gold color. It is a clean tasting wine and has a delicate, fleeting bouquet. The flavor of Chablis is described as flinty. There are four grades of Chablis as Chablis Grand Cru, Chablis Premier Cru, Petit Chablis and Chablis. The finest Chablis Grand Cru, must be French law "Appellation D'Origine" (ah-pell-ah-see-awn Dor-re-gene) come from one of the following seven vineyards: Les Clos, Grenouilles, Blanches, Vaudeuil, Valmur, Preuses, and Pougros. Creation of Joint Commission, New Equipment First Priorities in Upgrading Fire Protection

"I am not here waving a red flag. There is no immediate threat to the community. But I do think this community is vulnerable in terms of its fire protection--vulnerable in several ways."

With those words Richard Fowler, chairman of the joint Borough-Township fire needs committee formally presented the report of his committee to Monday night's joint meeting of Borough and Township officials. Council and Committee obviously were impressed with the urgency of the report. Both governing bodies resolved to create a joint fire commission and promised to purchase a new piece of fire equipment in 1978.

In what proved to be a productive joint session at Township Hall, Committee and Council also agreed to establish a joint environmental commission effective the first of the year. The Borough also agreed to participate in the Township's plans to develop a park along the Delaware and Raritan canal by Alexander Road and promised to contribute at least $15,000 toward the cost of the project. Council also voiced support for the Township's effort to preserve the old bridge over Mercer Road in the western edge of the Township.

The two groups also agreed to meet in another joint session next Tuesday at 8 in Borough Hall. Items on the agenda include discussion of the landmarks ordinance and the survey report on the health department.

The governing bodies heard a wide range of concern voiced over the community's fire protection.

The first priority in Mr. Fowler's mind was the acquisition of new apparatus. Establishment of a joint fire commission was also important, he said, because the fire commissioners in the Township and Borough now are usually rotated among members of Committee and Council every two years. The fire chief appointed by the fire companies serves only one year.

"A Great Flaw." "Every two years we start all over again," Mr. Fowler said. "That's a great flaw. A fire commission consisting of six or seven knowledgeable people would be a great backstop to the commissioner."

Anthony Krystaponis, Princeton's fire chief, said the joint commission would "provide a definite continuity of efforts. As it is now," he said, "the system leaves an awful lot hanging."

Support of the committee report was widespread. Larry Dupraz introduced himself at the meeting as "the cantankerous former fire chief." He, too, wanted to compliment the committee on its efforts, though in keeping with his introduction he did have several points with which he took issue.

Mr. Dupraz said that several years ago William Karch, another former chief who also was present at the meeting, had prepared a report that presented a 20-year projection of needs for new equipment. The new report only provides a five-year projection. "It seems our report got filed in the round file basket."

This Is PRINCETON

Communication Problem. Mr. Fowler said later that his committee had had access to the former fire report. Township Mayor Josie Hall pointed out that, although she had heard of the other report, she had never actually seen a copy. "Communications has been a real problem all along," she said.

Former chief Dupraz also criticized a recommendation for the closing of his fire house, Mercer Engine Company No. 3 on Chambers Street. "You'd lose precious minutes getting to fires on the southern edge of town and on the campus," he said. "Keep the station there on Chambers Street," he advised. "You need it in the heart of town."

First Class. "Our community is a first class community and we should have a first class fire company along with it," Mr. Dupraz concluded.

"I like to think we already have one," responded Borough Mayor Robert Cawley.

"Well, you have the finest men around," countered Mr. Dupraz, leaving unsaid his appraisal of the equipment.

Several citizens recommended that additional steps be taken to ensure greater fire protection. Mr. Fowler predicted that the day would come when Princeton would be served better by employing four full-time, paid drivers. One would be on duty at all times and would be ready to drive the first piece of equipment to any fire as soon as it was reported, he said.

Marian Green of College Road West rose to address another problem: the fire safety of buildings and the lack of any strong state fire code.

Mrs. Green said she had surveyed downtown Princeton stores and found that many had inadequate fire exits. Some had no rear exits at all; in case of a fire the only way out would be the front. Others have doors that open the wrong way. Few have sprinkler systems.

How To Get Out. "I'm the nervous type," said Mrs. Green, "the type who goes into a building and immediately looks around to see how the people could get out in case of a fire."

"The report was terrific but there was no mention of how we could make the laws stricter. I don't want to put an impossible burden on the merchants. I realize they can't put sprinkler systems in easily. But at least they could mark the fire exits clearly and change the doors so they open out."

Mrs. Green said she had become interested in fire safety when her children were little. They are now teenagers. The presentation of the fire committee report was her first opportunity to present her concerns.

"How can I get other people interested in this?" she asked Mr. Dupraz. "Get some publicity in the newspapers," replied the fireman.

Environmental merger. Council and Committee also agreed to merge the two Environmental Commissions. Action on this had taken somewhat longer than that on the fire commission, a fact that had generated some bitterness.

The two municipalities asked their attorney, Gordon Griffin, to draft an ordinance that would establish such a commission. No budgeting change would be made until next year, however.

The Borough's decision to become involved in the Basin Park project was a "very pleasant surprise" to Township Mayor Hall. The amount of money needed from the Borough is predicated on the availability of Green Acres funds.

Mrs. Hall is optimistic that state support will be forthcoming. "I'm sure that the Delaware and Raritan Canal Commission will be in support of our project," she said.

Basin Dredged. Total funding for the project would amount to about $78,000, 16,000 of which would be used to dredge the old turning basin located in the 10-acre park site. That basin would eventually be stocked with fish.

The park also would include two boat or canoe launching ramps, picnic tables, and a stabilized grass parking lot. If all went well with the applications for state money, work on the project could begin next spring, Mrs. Hall said.

vaginal incision to facilitate the birth of the baby's head, when she didn't think she needed one. "You are flat on your back in a two-by-two room from the time you enter a hospital, and that is not helping gravity."

"I want to be able to walk around while I am in labor, eat what I feel like eating and even go outdoors when I want to. At home a woman is free to carry on with her children and have contact with her friends. Although my husband was bearing from a Lamaze in-with me through the three hours of labor, he was constantly being shooed out of the room, and I am looking forward to having him around. I also want Ysidra to be a part of this birth," she added.

The first time around both Mr. and Mrs. Koch took an intensive course in child-bearing from a Lamaze instructor "who was terrific." In preparation for this baby they reviewed their booklets of information and practiced breathing techniques and exercises. Mrs. Koch has had pre-natal care from a family practitioner at the Phillips Barber Health Center in Lambertville, part of Hunterdon Medical Center which woman to be allowed to assume different positions which will help the course of labor. They also cite the importance of imprinting or liability, and he in turn has bonding, terms for the first moments after a birth when the mother checks over her newborn baby, touching fingers, toes, because Mrs. Koch is RH negative. He has also said he nuzzle a newborn foal will make whatever imprinting is felt to be important to the later for her if something does go wrong.

and child and a deterrent to post partum depression or "baby blues."

In a traditional hospital birth, Birth Alternatives members say, a mother who is unconscious when the baby is born and learns of its arrival and its sex from a doctor or nurse often has difficulty accepting the baby eventually put in her arms as really hers.

Such feelings of alienation from the infant don't occur in home births they say.

Birth Center An Alternative. For those who are apprehensive about having a baby at home and who have similar reactions to a hospital experience, the alternative is a birth center such as those that are springing up in Philadelphia and New York City and in states from Maine to Texas. It was Anne Battle who suggested this alternative to the group, based on her extensive experience at Booth Maternity Center in Philadelphia and more recently with the Maternity Association in New York City which has opened a child-bearing unit in a brownstone on 92nd Street.

As Mrs. Battle describes it, a birth center is like a home with one or more bedrooms in which a couple can come with friends or any support people they choose. There are midwives and midwife associates in attendance, an obstetrician and a pediatrician on call, and the couple leaves after a maximum of 12 hours. The total cost for the delivery with pre- and post-natal care is $500, she estimates, about two thirds of what a hospital birth now costs a couple.

"The premise," she asserts, "is that when a woman is pregnant, she is not sick. When she enters a hospital, she gets scared and loses control over her birth. She may cease to have con-

A Doctor Comments

Asked for his comment on why Princeton Medical Center doctors will not give pre-natal care to a woman who plans to give birth at home, Dr. William Besser, a gynecologist and long time obstetrician at the hospital here said, "The threat of a suit looms large. You get some enthusiastic young couple who have the baby at home and 13 years later they discover the child has learning difficulties. They slap a suit on the doctor."

"I am not against midwives," Dr. Besser adds, "I have worked with them in the summers on an Indian reservation. The chances of everything being normal at a home delivery are very good, but the stakes are extremely high and there are situations - a patient who suddenly bleeds or a baby who is being cut off from oxygen - when seconds literally make the difference. A birth alternative should be hospital based."

such as sugar in the urine or high blood pressure she will be referred to a hospital instead.

Midwives are common and accepted in Europe but not in the United States which only graduates 1,400 a year in comparison to the 5,000 trained annually in Great Britain alone. A midwife begins as an R.N. who also has a B.S. degree and adds a year of specialization at a midwifery school to become a certified nurse midwife, C.N.M.

Two members of Birth Alternatives, Alice Delvinthal and Marilyn Harrison are currently completing midwifery school. Mrs. Delvinthal, who was a former nurse in the maternity department of Princeton Medical Center has taken her training at Columbia Presbyterian in New York and Mrs. Harrison at Martland Hospital in Newark, a division of Rutgers Medical School. Three others, including Mrs. Battle, are in various stages of working toward becoming a midwife.

The whole process of giving birth has become an obsession, a calling, to Mrs. Battle, who has a 2½ year old son born in Booth Maternity Center in Philadelphia where "they treat you like a guest in a home, not as a patient," she says.

After assisting at some 500 births as a volunteer at Booth where she watched midwives help women "become very comfortable with their bodies" and after attending numerous conferences on the subject she says, "Little did I know how much more there is to learn about giving birth." She adds that with this knowledge the birth of a second child, if she should have one, will be "even better" than the birth of her son.

Establishing a Birth Center. Mrs. Battle and others in the group have worked hard over the past year laying the ground work for the establishment of a birth center. So far, obstetricians at Princeton

Confusion on Council Again Responsible For Banning DNA Research at P-3 Level

Just a few years ago a casual visitor to a Borough Council or Township Committee meeting might have sensed a certain sense of predestination to the proceedings. Motions would be introduced and seconded, debate would be heard and comments from the audience would be entertained. Then, at the critical moment of decision making, a few knowing glances would be exchanged, a compromise measure introduced, and a vote taken. The course of action would correspond exactly to what everyone on Council or Committee had predicted would happen before the meeting.

That assessment may be over-stated, but to say that the exact opposite has characterized the deliberations of the Borough Council is certainly no exaggeration.

Two weeks ago Borough Council considered the recommendations of the citizens DNA research committee, which said that the University should be allowed to pursue its research at three different levels. Speaking individually, four of the seven persons on Council stated they supported the basic thrust of those recommendations. But acting collectively, Council approved research only at the first two levels and stated that it should be banned at the third level pending further study.

One week ago, at an agenda meeting of Council, a motion to rescind that ban and accept the basic committee recommendations was introduced. Again, three councilmen and the mayor in favor of the committee recommendations, a majority sufficient to approve them. Again they were unable to act together to that end. Instead the Borough agreed to strike the work "ban" and enact an ordinance saying that a decision on the advanced level of DNA research has been "deferred" for as long as a year. University officials present at the meeting said the wording would impose the same hardship on their scientists as a ban would.

"No doubt about it," says Councilman Richard Woodridge. "If someone had done the choreography before the meeting, we would have approved the committee report." This Council, at least on the question of DNA, cannot be accused of operating in the proverbial smoke-filled room.

Why the Rush? Mr. Woodbridge is one of those who supports the DNA committee findings. "I think their report is great," he says. He also predicts that all three levels of DNA research, P-1, P-2, and P-3, will be approved, probably by "next January or so."

Lack of a choreographer accounted greatly for the Council's delay, but Mr. Woodbridge indicated that "mixed signals from the University" also contributed to the Council's course of action. Both he and Leona Medvin said they understood from a statement made by a University official at the meeting two weeks ago that the University was not interested in doing P-3 research at this time. Why then rush to change their original course of action? they reasoned.

The motion to rescind that action and the ban on P-3 research was made last week by William Selden. "I moved to accept the recommendations in principle, but there was no second," said Mr. Selden.

What happened? Either Mr. Woodbridge or Mrs. Medvin would have been expected to jump at the opportunity to show support. "It was partly because I had told the Democrats (who opposed the committee recommendations) that I had already done my thing," said Mr. Woodbridge, in reference to his compromise motion that had been passed the previous meeting. "Also, if someone else didn't second it, namely Leona, then what's the use. We wouldn't have the votes to pass it anyhow."

'Ready to Go.' And Mrs. Medvin? "I said that if we took a motion to approve the recommendations we could always legislate restrictions later, if we had to. I was ready to go ahead." So why didn't she second Mr. Selden's motion? Simply because she didn't realize it had been made.

In the minutes following the introduction of Mr. Selden's motion, more discussion ensued. "Then Marty Lombardo chimed in with a compromise," recalls Mr. Woodbridge. That was the direction Council finally took.

"I guess," said Mrs. Medvins in retrospect, "if we had been clearer on each other's feelings, it might not have turned out that way." She added that these meetings are characterized by sudden twists and turns in the debate, and that what exactly is on the floor is not always clear.

"I'm not sure myself always. Sometimes I think I should be taking notes as we go along," Mrs. Medvin said. "But these are open work sessions under the sunshine laws. We can't do it any other way."

Mixed Signals. The mixed signals from the University were received at the meeting two weeks ago. Both Mrs. Medvin and Mr. Woodbridge said they were struck by a statement made by Edward Cox, chairman of the biology department, in which he indicated that the University wanted to build P-3 labs at this time only for other types of research, not DNA. No one even had any plans for P-3 level DNA research at this time, though someone might be interested in another year or so.

The Councilmen indicated they could live more easily with the motion deferring action on P-3 research since the University was in no rush.

But at last week's meeting, another University official, Sheldon Judson, stated that there was a rush. The Borough's restriction limited the ability of the University to apply for federal research funds in this area.

In fact, that some point had been made at least three times at the original meeting. University Vice President William Weathersby rose to say that "it would be quite a hardship if approval for P research involved a long wait."

'Frustrated.' A biology professor, Austin Newton spoke twice. "There would be a year's lag in P-3 funding. The applications for funding would be compromised seriously," he said, if Coun-

Medical Center have refused to give pre-natal care for home births and are not receptive to the idea of a birth center.

Hunterdon Medical Center, however, has agreed to be a back-up facility for home and birth center births and is exploring the concept of a birth center with the group. Hunterdon has also made a grant to Birth Alternatives to have a survey conducted by the Eagleton Institute to see how many women in the tri-county area the birth center is expected to serve would choose such a facility over a hospital and for what reasons.

The group now has legal counsel, Baxendale, Strauss and Wills, and a Princeton doctor, Dr. Michelle Harrison, who will attend home births. Soon they expect to be looking for midwives, pediatricians and obstetricians and eventually for a house to rent or purchase, probably in Hopewell because it is on the tri-county border. Hospital personnel generally agree that a birth center ought to be hospital based.

In answer to questions on the risks involved, Mrs. Battle replies that there are risks involved in going to a hospital, specifically in the drugs and anaesthesia routinely used and in the occasional staph infection picked up by mother or baby. "Women should take responsibility for themselves," she asserts, "whether having a baby at a birth center, a hospital or at home and not just entrust themselves blindly to a doctor. Therefore they will have to become more knowledgeable."

Birth Alternatives expects to continue as a source of education and referral along with its determination to establish a birth center.

failed to approve P-3 research.

"A lot of us cannot do our experiments because we cannot use this research tool at a critical step," he said. "A lot of us are frustrated."

Neither Mrs. Medvin nor Mr. Woodbridge recall

Professor Newton's remarks. "I guess he just didn't make much of an impact," said Mrs. Medvin.

PAY RAISE PROPOSED For Township Committee. Politicians running for election never want to talk about a boost in salary, but that won't stop them from listening to a proposal made by someone else, who is not seeking re-election.

At Township Committee that someone else is Elizabeth Hutter, and she is proposing fairly substantial raises for committeemen and the Township mayor — $2,000 to be exact. The others are expected to listen when Mrs. Hutter makes the proposal at the meeting of Committee next Wednesday, July 20, at 8. Mrs. Hutter broached the idea at last week's meeting and was expected to bring it up again at the meeting this Wednesday night. Her plans changed, however, and she will be out of town this week.

Committeemen now make $1,000 a year in the Township; the Mayor receives $3,000. The raises, proposed by Mrs. Hutter, if enacted, would bring those salaries to $3,000 and $5,000.

"It would make it possible for more people to be willing to serve on Committee," she said. "Some people now might want to serve but can't because they have to work full-time or part-time at night. My purpose is to broaden the base of government. So that we don't just have select people of means running all the time."

Still Volunteer. "Raising the salary won't destroy the volunteer concept of government," Mrs. Hutter said. "With the proliferation of committees and meetings we have now the job is more burdensome than it used to be."

But, she added, a pay hike "might make it possible for a woman with children, for example, to hire help like baby sitters or housekeepers so that she could spend the time Committee requires. It would make possible a wider selection of candidates."

Mrs. Hutter is stepping down from Committee this December. "It's very burdensome," she says, adding that the job usually includes four night meetings a week with an exceptional "easy" week in which there are only three. "Your family has to come first."

A similar proposal was made by William Sutphin several years ago, also just before he left the job. That was defeated but Mrs. Hutter thinks some boost in salary has a better chance of passing this year.

'More Feasible.' "It's more feasible because there's a better balance politically this year," she said. When Mr. Sutphin made his proposal the Committee was dominated by Democrats, 4-1. "It would have been difficult for the controlling party to do it," said Mrs. Hutter.

Committee now is comprised of three Republicans and two Democrats. More important, the other member leaving Committee this year is Margaret Broadwater. She also voiced support for some sort of raise, though she has not specified an amount. Mrs. Broadwater is a Democrat; Mrs. Hutter a Republican — that gives the measure bipartisan support.

"It might even give us a chance for a more efficient government," said Mrs. Hutter. "Who knows?"

In the Borough, Councilmen are paid $750 a year. The mayor earns $1,000.

Lowest In State? "It's only been in the past ten years or so that we've been paid at all," said Leona Medvin, who looked into the salaries paid by other municipalities in a course she took at Rutgers after she was elected to Council. "As far as I could gather, we're the lowest paid municipality in the state."

But Mrs. Medvin emphasized she is not complaining and has no interest in a pay raise. "I have heard no mention of it at all on Council," she said.

RECYCLING SCRAPPED

In Borough. Remember recycling? Clear glass on this Wednesday, green glass on that Wednesday, and newspapers on another — all in a schedule that few seemed able to keep straight.

Well, as with a lot of other noble ideas it has gone — temporarily at least — the way of the scrap heap.

Councilwoman Nelson van den Blink reported at Tuesday night's meeting that the Borough's new two-year garbage contract with Princeton Disposal Service will no longer include the recycling service. "It cost us $10,000 a year," she explained, "and the use of the service has been steadily declining."

Police Rally Contract

By a majority vote taken Tuesday night, Borough police approved a new two-year contract calling for five percent salary increases this year and next and providing for expanded fringe benefits. The raises are retroactive to January 1.

For details of the contract, which received Borough Council endorsement last week, see story on Page 16 bage collection service, which will cost taxpayers $160,000 over the next two years, beginning August 1, provide for trash collection only two days a week. But the kind of trash that will be picked up now includes just about anything one man can lift from the curb to the truck including all those cans, bottles and newspapers.

Under the terms of the new contract, trash does not have to be separated, as it was in the past. Because of the wide range of materials that will now be gathered, spring and fall clean-up days will not be necessary.

More Work. For people committed to the ecological principle of recycling, the new contract means more work. "We are fortunate that the Township provides a recycling place," said Mrs. van den Blink, "and their shed at the Shopping Center actually takes more types of cans than our service did."

Newspapers may still find some takers if they are left out at the curb as in the past. The rising value of newsprint, apparently caused some groups in the past to sweep through town ahead of the Princeton Disposal Service, picking up what had been left out. "I hope some volunteers will take on the newspapers," said Mrs. van den Blink.

The Councilwoman indicated further that the Borough and Township will discuss regional solid waste planning, an item that has been added to the agenda for next Tuesday's joint meeting in Borough Hall. "Maybe that will include recycling," she said.

Council also moved to extend the rent leveling ordinance, which was due to expire August 1, to December 1.

The net effect of Council's action is that, for those people whose leases come up for renewal in September, as many apparently do in this college community, the rent leveling ordinance will govern their landlords' charges for the duration of those leases.

Those who favor letting the existing ordinance die argue that no one seems sure of exactly what, if anything, the current law accomplishes.

Control Harmful? Mr. Selden said he supported the extension of the ordinance for four months only so that a full discussion would be held on the law's merits, but that he already was certain of his opposition.

"I would prefer that it go out of existence. I am in favor of assistance to those in financial need. A rent control of any sort may be harmful to the housing development in the community in the long run. I am fearful of a depressed housing situation. I'd prefer to emphasize subsidized housing as a means of helping people who need help economically," he said.

The extension of the ordinance "will give us a little more time to think about it," said Mayor Cawley. He and the other Republicans favored the creation of a grievance board to handle tenants' complaints.

The majority of Democrats favored the extension. During the period of the extension they may propose revisions in it. The law now is four years old.

Sewage Update. On other matters, Mayor Cawley said that the Council would write to the Federal Environmental Protection Agency "expressing our view that the three-plant sewage system is the best solution to the sewer problems. The most critically needed action," he continued, "is some speed on the part of the EPA."

"We need to get the upstream plant underway," he said. Delays in completing work on the downstream connection, the mayor said, "is a scandal as far as I am concerned. I wonder if the state and federal agencies really want to do something to solve water pollution."

HALF-FARE OFFERED

On Loop Bus. Riders on the Mercer Metro Loop Bus system now may purchase discount ticket books. The books, which contain 20 tickets and cost $3, enable passengers to ride for half-fare (15 cents) at any time, courtesy of Princeton Borough and Township.

The tickets are not valid for trips outside of Princeton or after Labor Day. Ticket books may be purchased at the Community Park pool, Princeton Public Library, Lloyd Terrace, Princeton Community Village, the Housing Authority Office at 50 Clay Street, and Borough and Township halls.

NEW HEARINGS PLANNED

On I-95 Alignment. Ten to 15 years from now the 30-mile gap in Interstate 95 between I-295 in Mercer County and Route 287 in Somerset and Middlesex may be completed or may be scrapped. But, then again, they may still be talking about what to do with it, just as they were 10 to 15 years ago.

This fresh round of meetings, similar to others held in the fall, has been scheduled to help the state come up with an environmental impact statement by next year. When the state held the first round of hearings last September some 30-40 routes were being considered. That now has been reduced to about a dozen with the help of a Newark consulting firm.

The strongest opposition has come from Hopewell Township officials. Two months ago they asked the department of "immediately discontinue" the study. They hoped a proposed cutoff of I-95 construction funds might bring the project to a halt. The fund cutoff was proposed in a footnote to the 1977-78 state budget, but Gov. Brendan T. Byrne vetoed all road-blocking footnotes.

Hopewell Township residents will get a chance to voice their opposition another time at a public hearing set for 7:30 p.m., this Wednesday at Hopewell Valley Central High School. Other sessions include 7:30 meetings at the Montgomery Township Municipal building on Thursday; Hillsborough Township High School on July 20; and Franklin Township Municipal Building on July 18.

Maps showing the active alternatives can be inspected in municipal buildings in Hopewell Township and Borough, Princeton Township and Borough, Pennington Borough and Lawrence, Montgomery, Hillsborough, Franklin and Piscataway Townships.

TEANECK MAN GUILTY

In Aftermath of Rug Theft. More than a year later, a Teaneck resident has been convicted of interstate transportation of 48 rugs stolen May 6, 1976, from R. H.

Water, Water Everywhere

Despite Tuesday's deluge that sent water cascading down roadways—particularly between 12 and 12:30 when the storm was heaviest—both Borough and Township police report no problems of any consequence.

At 12:22, two cars collided on the curve at Bayard Lane and Mountain Avenue and police attributed the cause to the four inches of water that was on the roadway in that area at the time. One driver was slightly injured but refused medical attention.

The heavy rain came almost two years to the day of the record-setting deluge that dumped nine inches here.

Kahn Antique Rugs and Textiles, 106 Alexander Street.

Taher Anavim, who was convicted in June after a six-day trial before U.S. District Court Judge Stanley S. Brotman and a jury, faces a maximum sentence of 10 years in jail and a $10,000 fine.

The jury found that the oriental rugs were taken during an armed robbery at the Kahn firm and were allegedly transported from a Brooklyn location to Anavim's home in Teaneck where they were recovered three days after the theft.

District Attorney Jonathan L. Goldstein cited the efforts of FBI agents under the direction of Special Agent Louis Giovanetti for their excellent work in the case.

FOUR HUBCAPS STOLEN

Valued at $105 Each. Four wire wheel hubcaps valued at $105 each were stolen last week from a 1977 Cadillac parked on University Place. The owner, a Lawrenceville resident, told police he had parked his car at 7:30 in the morning and returned at 9:12 in the evening.

A 35 mm camera valued at $150 and a $58 lens were taken between 7:30 and 11:10 Friday evening from the kitchen of a Linden Lane resident. The kitchen door was unlocked, police said.

A clerk at Zinder's, 102 Nassau Street, told police Friday that three teenagers had shoplifted two pair of padded, tan leather skateboard gloves valued at $16 a pair, and a Stanworth Lane resident reported the theft of a $40 battery from his car parked in his unlocked garage.

A boy's 5-speed bicycle was stolen during the weekend from the sideyard of a Hilton Street resident who discovered the theft when she returned home Sunday evening. It was valued at $50.

Sneak Thief Gets $80. In the Township, Mrs. Greta Sander, 111 Harris Road, lost $80 when a sneak thief grabbed her tan leather shoulder bag from a dining room table.

Mrs. Sander told police that she had placed it there about 6 Friday evening and discovered it missing when she went to get it the next morning at 11:30. There was no forced entry.

A Hibben Apartment resident, Mrs. Lydia Kelly, reported the theft of her purse from her locked car parked in Lot 20 on the Princeton University campus.

She had parked the car at 1:30 to go to work in her garden and returned two hours later, she told police, to discover her car open. A vent window had been pried to enter the car.

She lost $30 and a pair of reading glasses.

A.A. Johnson, an investigator for New Jersey Bell, told police last week that a pay telephone valued at $213.57 containing $11 in coins had been apparently stolen from a service station at Route 206 and Cherry Valley Road.

The station has since been torn down and a new Rocky Hill Phillips station is under construction. The contractor was quoted as saying he didn't see any phone there. It is believed to have been taken June 11.

TWO ARE CHARGED

In $4000 Silver Theft. Two men have been charged with the breaking and entering and larceny of $4,000 in silverware June 16 from a Stockton Street home.

Both Michael D. Flanagan, 20, Sutton Lane, West Windsor, and Victor M. Perone, 19, Dutch Neck Road, Edinburgh, were arrested last week at police headquarters, following an investigation by Det. Ronald Holliday. Both were later released in their own recognizance, pending their appearance in Borough court next Wednesday.

The home was entered through a basement window. All of the silverware has been recovered but police declined to say where.

Celebrating 4th on 5th. On the evening following July 4, Borough police arrested three Princeton juveniles for allegedly setting off firecrackers and drinking alcoholic beverages at the Harrison Street playground.

The three, two boys 15 and 17, and a 15-year old girl will be processed as juveniles. Police responded to an 8:54 p.m. call.

Mr. Reed is a Kenyon alumnus who received his bachelor's degree in political science in 1960. He was awarded Kenyon's Henry G. Dalton Fellowship for graduate study, with which he earned a master of public administration degree at the Maxwell School at Syracuse University.

Mr. Reed came to Princeton after six years with the Ford Foundation, where he served as assistant to the representative for administration in New Delhi, India, and as administrative officer and manager of professional activities in the foundation's New York City office. His early career was with the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, -culminating in the post of director of administration for the AEC's Health and Safety Laboratory in New York.

ORGAN WORKSHOP SET
By Westminster. Three masters of the organ will give classes by day this week and recitals for the public in the evening under the auspices of Westminster Choir College. The public is invited to the latter.

Organized by Joan Lippincott, Head of the Organ Department at Westminster Choir College and Monday's recitalist, this organ workshop has attracted organists from all over the country.

Fenner Douglas, who is an outstanding organ scholar and performer, was for many years the Head of the Organ Department at Oberlin College. Presently, he is Professor of Music and University organist at Duke University Chapel where he has a new monumental Flentrop organ at his disposal. Also the author of "The Language of the Classical French Organ," he will lecture on this subject and will give a recital for the public on Wednesday, July 13, at 8 p.m. at the Lawrenceville School.

Robert Schuneman, an expert in German Romantic organ literature, will give a recital in Scheide Hall on the Westminster campus on Thursday, at 8 p.m. Schuneman was editor of the "Diapason," a monthly magazine for organists, from 1970 to 1976 and is presently on the faculties of The New England Conservatory, Boston Conservatory and Westminster. William Hays, another Westminster organ faculty member will participate in the master classes, but will not give a recital for the public.

TWO FILMS OFFERED
At Kresge Auditorium. John Schlesinger's "Sunday, Bloody Sunday" and Bernardo Bertolucci's "The Conformist" will constitute the fourth week's double-bill of Summer Cinema '77 at Kresge Auditorium on the Princeton University campus from Thursday through Sunday.

With a highly acclaimed script by New Yorker Magazine film critic Penelope Gilliatt, "Sunday, Bloody Sunday" is arguably the best film by the English director of such titles as "Midnight Cowboy" and "Day of the Locust." Glenda Jackson, Murray Head, and the late Oscar-winning actor Peter ("Network") Finch form a romantic triangle—with Murray Head as the hypotenuse.

"The Conformist" put Italian director Bernardo Bertolucci on the map as a major figure in world cinema long before his sensational triumph in this country with "Last Tango in Paris." Based on the novel of the same name by Alberto Moravia, it is an absorbing study of decadence during the Fascist regime in Italy of 1938. Jean-Louis Trintignant is Marcello, a right-wing intellectual. With a supporting cast including Stefania Sandrelli and Dominique Sanda, "The Conformist" is a triumph of style and the work of a man who has emerged as one of the true poets of the cinema in the 1970's.

On Thursday and Sunday evenings, "Sunday, Bloody Sunday" will be shown at 7:30, with "The Conformist" following at 9:15. On Friday and Saturday, "Sunday" will open the double-bill with "The Conformist" at 9:45.

Summer Cinema '77 will present Harold Lloyd's 1927 silent comedy classic "The Kid Brother" as the second of its family programs on Sunday at 4. The single showing will take place in the Kresge Auditorium on the Princeton campus, and single admissions ($1.50) will be available at the door from 3:30 p.m.

Considered by many to be Harold Lloyd's best movie, "The Kid Brother" is a retelling of the Cinderella story with Lloyd as Harold Hickory, the youngest-and-weakest-son of the town sheriff.

'KISS ME KATE' STAGED

By Hightstown Company. Theatre-By-The-Lake will continue its summer season on July 21, 22, and 23 with Cole Porter's musical comedy hit, "Kiss Me Kate."

The show is a play within a play: actor, director and superman Fred Graham and his temperamental co-star Lilli Vanessi are performing together in a musical version of "The Taming of the Shrew" their first cooperative effort since their divorce a year before.

Directors Tom Cardea and Bob Sine have selected a seasoned cast for the show. Fred Graham will be played by Richard Hutchinson of Hightstown, a Theatre-By-The-Lake veteran whose record stretches back to the first production. Toni Mascherin of Hamilton Square will play the volatile Lilli Vanessi, adding to a long list of credits that includes roles in the productions of "Godspell" and "Mame" and a membership in the New Jersey All-State Chorus.

Ginny Leoni of Trenton portrays Lois Lane. The part of Bill Calhoun will be played by John Lilland of Princeton, who has been featured in several musical productions at Princeton Day School, including "Brigadoon" and "Anything Goes." Brett Gash of Hightstown and Jeffrey Pierson of Pennington will portray the two gangsters.

Paul, a featured dance role, will be played by Glen McIntyre of Pennington. Deborah DuGan and Gary Fackenthal, both of Trenton, take the roles of Hattie, Lilli's dresser, and Harrison Howell, her fiancé. Andrew Falkoff, John Boross, Conrad White, and Hormoz Beehroozi round out the cast. John Schenk is set designer for the production; lighting will be by Fred Bertram.

'CREATION' IS NEXT

At Summer Intime, Summer Intime, in its 10th anniversary season, breaks out its next major production, "Creation of the World and Other Business" by Arthur Miller, this Thursday, in Murray Theater.

"Creation" follows what has been the most successful show

AN APPLE A DAY... Margaret Emory plays Eve and Duncan Brine acts in the role of the tempting Lucifer in Summer Intime's production of "Creation of the World and Other Business" by Arthur Miller. Described by Director Larry Smith as "an intimate retelling of the creation myth," the play opens Thursday in the intimate confines of Murray Theater on the Princeton University campus. It will run this weekend and next, with a 2:30 matinee scheduled on Saturday, July 23.

in Summer Intime's history: George Bernard Shaw's "Candida," which performed to standing-room only crowds.

With "Candida" a tough act to follow, Summer Intime has prepared a three-ring circus of a show: gripping drama, hysterical comedy, and theatrical spectacle. New York director Larry Smith joins Summer Intime to stage this play.

Mr. Smith, who spent three years studying drama at the Drama Centre in England, looks upon "Creation" as one of his favorite plays: "It's a play that didn't make it on Broadway because it wasn't meant for such a large stage. It's an intimate retelling of the creation myth." Mr. Smith last year directed a Florida production of "Creation" which ran for three months. "It's amazing to see a play that some people call dead come to life on the stage. The audience reaction was fantastic. They were held," he said.

Keith Moore, who will be remembered for his interpretation of Morell in "Candida," reappears on the Intime stage in the role of the first man. Margaret Emory, who was last seen as the wise old dame in "Ring Round the Moon," plays Eve and Duncan Brine who played the world's greatest lover in "Don Juan" this past winter, plays Lucifer.

For the part of God, Summer Intime has hired feature Equity actor Carl Williams. Mr. Williams will appear in the rest of the Summer Intime shows and then travel to the Tyrone Guthrie Theater where he will appear for four months with that company. Rounding out the "Creation" cast are Kathy Barry, Mark Nelson as Abel, Clayton Platt as Cain, and Katherine Stewart.

Visually Spectacular. The lobby and waiting rooms of Summer Intime have been decorated with banners and white balloons in preparation for this gala show, the most visually spectacular of the SI season. "Creation" runs July 14-17, and 21-24 at 8:30, 7:30 Sundays with a 2:30 matinee on Saturday, July 23.

Tickets should be reserved or purchased in advance. For reservations or more information call 452-8181 or stop by Murray Theater on the Princeton University campus.

"Alice Through the Looking Glass," Intime's children's show, promises a magical afternoon in the theatre for audiences of all ages.

POLICE VOTE ON PACT
Two-Year Contract. A proposed two-year contract between Princeton Borough and its policemen was expected to be voted on by the Police Benevolent Association membership Tuesday night.

The proposed contract, which was received favorably last Thursday night at an agenda meeting of Borough Council, calls for a five percent pay hike in each of the two years, 1977 and 1978. The raise for this year would be made retroactive to the first of the year. It also would provide Blue Cross-Blue Shield dental coverage for patrolmen, but not their families, beginning in the second year of the contract.

Under the proposed terms of the contract policemen also would be paid for the time they spend at their monthly squad meetings, and would receive additional pay for certain types of overtime, for which they now receive compensatory time off.

"The negotiations were tough but fair," said Richard Woodbridge, who represented Borough Council.

PTI James Agins, head of the police negotiating committee, said that the vote by the 21 members of the Borough PBA could go either way. "A lot of pros, a lot of cons," he said of the contract being considered.

State Influence. Mr. Woodbridge said that the two-year contract is "relatively unique" in recent Borough dealings with the police. The negotiations also were influenced by the state-imposed limitation on pay increases to five percent.

Benefits became the key points in negotiations. Some police were believed anxious to receive dental coverage for their entire families. Instead the contract being considered provides only for the patrolman. But it did provide travel money for a second trip home for policemen attending the training academy in Sea Girl.

Several overtime provisions have been changed in the proposed new contract. Detectives, who now receive a straight $600 a year in lieu of overtime, would receive an amount greater than that for every hour of overtime over 65, up to a maximum for 100 hours.

Policemen called on duty during University football games would receive time and a half compensation instead of straight pay. Police officers held over the normal end of their shift, to investigate an accident or a crime, for example, would receive compensatory time off for the first hour, and then time and a half in pay for every hour after that. In the past they received compensatory time off.

Start From Scratch? "We were building up a lot of time off," said Mr. Woodbridge, "and we reached the point where we had to ask whether it was cheaper to pay the

HOW A BOOK GROWS

Public Library to Tell All. If you love to read; if you are curious about how a book is written; if you have ever wanted to write a book, then come to the Princeton Public Library on Thursday, July 21 at 3:30 p.m.

Avi, author of several children's books, will tell you how a book grows from the first idea to the finished manuscript. Avi's latest tale of pirates and adventure, "Captain Grey" takes place in 1783 on the New Jersey Coast.

Registration for ages eight and up is at the children's desk.

In the children's room is a brightly colored ballot box next to the Librarian's desk. Between now and July 20 young readers can help nominate their favorite book (also the one that bored them stiff). Then, on August 10, the Mercer County Board of Elections will bring a voting machine to the Library. Children will be able to go in, pull the curtain, and vote for their favorite book -- and against the one they hated most! The Children's room is open from 9 to 9 every Monday; from 9 to 5:30 Tuesday through Friday; and from 9 to 12:30 on Saturday.

Tenants Due for Rebate Checks

Tenants in New Jersey may begin receiving rebates as early as Aug. 1 under the Tenants' Property Tax Rebate Program, according to John F. Laezza, director of the Division of Local Government Services, N.J. Department of Community Affairs (DCA).

"Under the law, landlords are required to pass on to their residential tenants, in the form of a rebate or credit towards their rent, a specified proportion of tax reductions received after 1976," Mr. Laezza said.

Stressing that the rebates are for renters of residential properties only, and apply only to tenancy during calendar year 1977, Laezza noted that the landlord is to share with his tenants 65 percent of the property tax reductions as certified by the tax collector in each municipality.

"This really is an experiment, where for the first time, the N.J. Legislature and Governor Byrne give formal recognition to the fact that tenants share in paying real estate taxes," commented Community Affairs Commissioner Patricia Q. Sheehan.

A hot line number (394-0440) has been set up in DCA to handle questions on the rebate program, Ms. Sheehan said.

Some of the most frequently-asked questions coming into the hotline are answered here

Q. - Who is eligible?

A - Almost all tenants of residential properties who have been in the unit since Jan. 1, 1977, are eligible. The only exception applies to those who reside in buildings of two or three units, IF THE LANDLORD LIVES IN ONE OF THEM. The landlord of an owner-occupied building of three units or less is entitled to keep the entire property reduction. On the other hand, the renter of a single-family residence gets a rebate.

Q. - What if I moved out during the year?

A - You are entitled to a pro-rated rebate. For instance, if you lived in the unit from Jan. 1 to July 1, 1977, you would get one-half of the rebate for that dwelling. If you move, make sure you leave a forwarding address with the landlord. The landlord is required to write to you at your last known address. If after one year of the date of mailing you have not claimed the rebate, the owner keeps the money and you lose your rights.

Q. - What must the tenant do to get his rebate?

A - No application is necessary for the rebate, so the tenant need not do anything, unless he has moved (See above). Look for the notice the landlord must post in the building. If by the end of September you have not heard from your landlord and you think you are entitled to a rebate, call the tax collector to ascertain if he certified a property tax reduction amount to your landlord. If after talking to him you are not satisfied, call the hot line (609-394-0440).

Q. - How much will the rebate be?

A - The exact amount of an individual rebate will vary from place to place. Some factors involved are the tax reduction in the particular municipality, last year's unbudgeted school aid refund and the size and the type of your unit.

Q. - Must the tenant be under lease to qualify for the rebate?

A - No. There is no such requirement under the law.

Q. - Will I get the entire rebate at one time?

A - The first rebate, due with the August rent billing, will represent 8-12s of the amount. You then get the remainder at the time each rent payment is made.

Q. - Does the landlord send me a check?

A - Not necessarily. The landlord's responsibility is to send a check or credit your monthly rent.

PAMPHLET AVAILABLE

On Saving Water. Homeowners, municipal officials and others interested in saving water may get tips from the experts by obtaining a copy of a new publication now available from Rutgers University.

"Water Conservation With Water Saving Devices" is the name of the publication based on the proceedings of a conference of the same name held at the State University's Cook College last November. The conference was organized by Dr. Theodore B. Shelton and Prof. Joseph J. Soporowski Jr., both of the New Jersey Cooperative Extension Service at Cook and editors of the publication. "With weather experts indicating the possibility of some six more weeks of below-normal rainfall for the state, the question of water conservation is of growing importance," said Dr. Shelton.

The 80-page booklet includes the full texts of presentations made at the conference by experts from the Federal Energy Administration, the State Department of Environmental Protection, the New Jersey Water Resources Research Institute at Rutgers, and Penn State and the Stevens Institute of Technology. Copies are available at $5 each from the Publications Distribution Center, Cook College, P.O. Box 231, New Brunswick. Checks may be made payable to Rutgers University.

3 OFFICES ENTERED

At 185 Nassau Street. The entry of three third-floor offices at 185 Nassau Street was investigated Monday morning by Borough Ptl. William Hunter and Ptl. William Nathan.

A wooden panel was kicked out of each office door, police said, but two offices report nothing missing and an alarm clock valued at $10 was taken from the third.

WINDOWS ARE TARGETS

For Vandals. Eight windows, one measuring 22 x 48 inches, at Princeton Labs, 1 Cherry Hill Road, were broken between 5 Thursday afternoon and the next morning by vandals throwing red shale stones. Some of the stones were found inside the building by police. Rafael Balestrieri reported the incident.

At 11:42 Thursday evening, Ptl. John Hammond and Ptl. Peter Savalli investigated a call reporting the sound of breaking glass at the Valley Road School building.

The officers discovered a window of the wood shop on the east side of the building shattered. They recovered three stones.

DRIVER IS ASSAULTED

During Rush Hour Traffic. A Princeton driver was hit in the head twice by a youth Monday during 5-o'clock traffic on Witherspoon Street.

The driver did not require medical care but Chief Michael Carnevale commented, "I think this points out a total disregard for citizens' rights to move freely in a community. People have no regard for anyone."

Chief Carnevale added that police have not been able to identify the suspect who was described as 20 to 22, 6-2, wearing a dark sport shirt and glasses.

According to police, he was one of three youths who a few minutes after five had blocked the path of a car driven by a Trenton resident at the entrance to the Tulane West parking lot off Witherspoon Street next to Princeton Clothing. Behind the Trenton driver was the Princeton driver.

Both got out of their cars and approached the three youths. Police said that when the Princeton driver told the youths to get out of the way he was assaulted.

Rt. 206 Drivers Beware: Light Is Working
Motorists on Route 206 North, used to cruising uninterrupted between Cherry Hill Road and Route 518 in Rocky Hill are advised that the traffic light at Cherry Valley Road next to Nassau-Conover Motors at the Princeton and Montgomery Township line was put into operation last Wednesday. Two accidents occurred at the intersection the following day.
Township Chief Frederick Porter reported that the light had been flashing amber to 206 traffic for about eight weeks to get drivers used to it, "but people were so used to having conditions one way," he commented, "they proceeded right on through."
At 8:30 Thursday morning, a car driven by Dwight C. Keneagy, 33, of Trenton, rammed the rear of a small foreign car operated by Clifford L. Gardner, 31, of Browns Mills, pushing the Gardner car into the rear of a car driven by Ruth R. Guth, 33, 443 Herrontown Road. There were no summonses issued by Ptl. John Clausen but the Gardner car had to be towed away.
Shortly after two in the afternoon, Donald F. Leslie, 22, of Skillman suddenly saw a car stopped for the new light and was unable to stop in time. He struck the rear fender of the car of Philip W. Mitchell Jr., 36, of Marlton.
There were no injuries and no charges by Ptl. Mario Musso who witnessed the accident.

NIGHTLIGHT BLAMED
For Bedroom Fire. A small, bare nightlight is what caused a pillow and mattress to smoulder and fill a boys bedroom with acrid smoke at 665 Snowden Lane.
Herbert Horowitz called police at 3:45 Monday morning, reporting his children's bedroom filled with smoke, after he had been awakened by his sons. He thought it was the air conditioner and pulled the plug.
However, Sgt. Robert Heacock, who responded, in checking for hot spots, noticed a pillow screened by a head board was giving off smoke and acrid flame. That and a mattress that was also smouldering were hurled outside and extinguished with a garden hose and patrol car extinguisher.
Police said that apparently while sleeping the youth had pushed his pillow up under the headboard where it came into contact with the light.
Brush Fire, Too. Six members of Hook & Ladder responded to a police call Sunday to put out a brush fire at the rear of 240 Hartley Avenue. An area about 10 by 15 feet was burned.
The property owner, Charles Gilvarg was not at home at the time and it was reported by David Hirst, 229 Hartley. The cause has not been determined.

OFF THE BEATEN TRACK
Onto the Railroad Track. A driver and his passenger escaped injury Saturday after their car shot across the "Dinky" platform, dropped six feet to the tracks and continued on into a hedge.
Borough police gave this account. Stephen A. Bank, 33, of Towson, Md., had arrived at the Con-Rail Station at University Place shortly before 6 p.m. to catch the train. He was accompanied by Maria C. Romanach, 30, of Philadelphia.
He stopped the car in the taxi area, left it in drive and pulled on the hand brake. As he exited the car, however, his knee hit the brake, releasing it and the car started to drift forward. Ms. Romanach cried out in alarm.
Mr. Bank turned, got back in the car and attempted to stop it but his foot, police said, slipped from the brake to the gas pedal. His 1977 rental car traveled forward 23 feet, jumped the curb, knocked over two New York newspaper dispensing machines, continued for another 13 feet

OBITUARIES

M. Halsey Thomas, who served as archivist at Princeton University for ten years prior to his retirement in 1969, died July 7 at the Merwick Unit of the Medical Center at Princeton after a long illness. He was 74 years old.

A native of Troy, N.Y., and a graduate of Columbia University, Thomas was librarian of Columbia's Butler Library of Philosophy from 1926 until 1928, when he was named curator of Columbia. In 1959, he was appointed the first incumbent of the newly created post of university archivist at Princeton.

Every member of the chapter has been invited to one of the seven lunches, which will be held at the homes of Sylvia Ehrlich, Lenore Gordon, Pam Hersh, Berta Kerr, Phyllis Kurshan, Anne Lowe and Dr. Marion Robinson.

The $5 donation from each person attending will go towards the purchase of a mobile pediatric ventilator-respirator for the mother and child Pavilion of the Hadassah Medical Organization in Israel. For further information call Harriet Heilweil, 921-8682, and Iris Shapiro, 924-7710, chairmen.

Beta Sigma Phi, international social and service sorority, has now formed a chapter in the Princeton area. Newly elected officers of the Princeton Delta Pi chapter are Gail Schwartz, president; Frances Rak, vice president; Regina Shaver, recording secretary; and Gloria Cornette, treasurer. An informal coffee will be held Wednesday evening, July 20, for women interested in knowing more about Beta Sigma Phi. Interested women are invited to call 874-3311 or 924-4415.

The Community Alternatives Group will hold a program on nuclear power, Saturday evening, July 16, at the Friends First Day School, on Quaker Road. The topic will be "Plans for Nuclear Power in N.J.; How They Will Affect Us."

A speaker from the Citizens for Responsible Power Policies will present information on the topic, followed by general discussion of the issues and possible courses of local action. There will also be a 1977 NBC film documentary on the storage of radioactive wastes from nuclear power plants. The program will follow a potluck dinner starting at 7 p.m.

The Contemporary Garden Club has presented to the Princeton Battlefield Area Preservation Society a teak bench which has been placed where the cannon balls were formerly located at the eastern edge of the Battlefield Park. The bench, which commemorates the Bicentennial celebrations of 1976-77, overlooks the Battlefield and commands a magnificent view of the Mercer Oak.

Mrs. John P. Murray Jr., president of the Contemporary Garden Club, and Mrs. Neal W. O'Connor, project director, made the presentation to Richard W. Baker Jr., president of PBAPS.

D.O.T. Action Protested.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Following is the text of a letter I have written to William Matthews, Area Coordinator, New Jersey State Department of Transportation, concerning I-95.
JOSEPHINE H. HALL
Mayor

On behalf of the Princeton Township Committee, I would like to register our formal protest on again being left out in the cold when the N.J.D.O.T. planned the July 12, 13, 14, 18 and 20th public meetings on the I-95 alternatives chosen for further study. Despite the Federal Government's definition of an impact zone, the N.J.D.O.T. does not apparently consider it necessary to hold a meeting in Princeton Township, part of which is in such a zone.

Your office is supposed to be coordinating community involvement during the I-95 impact study. Yet our first knowledge of the July meetings was when an alert reporter called me for comments. Had we waited for the official N.J.D.O.T. notice, received July 6th, it would have been impossible for notice to be put in the local press in time for the public to plan to attend.

The general impression in Princeton Township is that N.J.D.O.T. is going out of its way to avoid community involvement. This is especially galling at a time when one of the alignments being considered almost grazes the Township's border. The point is driven home by your consultant's recent request for the Township's assistance in listing "4-f" areas which fall within the two mile impact zone which intrudes on part of the Township.

The Princeton community has many citizens who commute and return home late. Many of them simply cannot get to a meeting half an hour away by 7:30 p.m. In addition, although Princeton has many concerns which parallel Hopewell and Montgomery's, there are others which are solely ours.

It is for these reasons that we reiterate our request of September 29, 1976, for the N.J.D.O.T. to hold an I-95 meeting within Princeton Township's borders. We would be happy to share this meeting with Lawrence which I noticed was also left out of your schedule — even though they now have one alignment crossing a corner of their Township.

Pop-Picnic A Success.
To The Editor of Town Topics:
Could there have been a more genial and enjoyable way to celebrate the Bicentennial last Sunday evening than with the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra's pop-picnic?

"Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue" indeed!

● the polite and buoyant crowd of 7000-plus, laden with camp chairs, coolers, movable feasts and blankets who still smiled at unexpectedly long lines and seemed to stay smiling all evening;

● the children waving imaginary batons in unison with conductor Thomas Michalak;

● the couples dancing to the "Blue Danube" and "Fiddler";

● the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra players and personnel for giving us those wonderful sounds of music, and to its chairman Sydney Stevens, a bulwark of support over the years;

● Princeton University for providing the spacious site as well as total cooperation in staging;

● The First National Bank of Princeton and the Princeton Bank & Trust Company for providing ticket outlets;

● the sponsoring groups of the entire venture: The Princeton Chapter of the NJ Symphony Orchestra League, the Princeton YWCA and the Princeton Youth Fund. Their members' endless and enthusiastic efforts were the key to success and will benefit their organizations' various youth services.

● the weather man who outdid himself, letting the "force" be with us.

And finally, cheers again to the great audience who left the green acres in mint condition. The total offering to our clean-up brigade consisted of a few corks, 2 Coke cans, four programs and a lost toy. A sense of beauty prevailed all the way to the litter baskets, a grand finale to a perfect "first" for the Glorious Fourth.

Outsiders Have Long Derided New Jersey, But Poll Shows Most Residents Like It here

New Jerseyans have long been subjected to a steady diet of needling about their state, afflicting many with self-doubts. To much of the outside world, New Jersey is viewed as a crowded, polluted corridor, bisected by a turnpike which takes its toll. Or it is seen as a large suburb in the shadows of New York and Philadelphia.

But to 7.5 million residents, New Jersey is home. Their views of life in the Garden State and in their communities are the major concern of a special Eagleton survey entitled "New Jersey Images". The recent survey asked a random sample of 1,005 New Jerseyans about the quality of life in New Jersey, about their likes and dislikes, about government and politics, education, culture, entertainment, leisure, the media, and about major problems confronting the state and their communities. This is the first in an eight-part series.

To most outsiders, New Jersey is a crowded, polluted corridor between New York City and Philadelphia, a crime-infested hinterland with a turnpike that never fails to take its toll.

To Lincoln Steffens, New Jersey was the "traitor New state," a corrupt haven for lawless, tax-evading businesses and trusts.

According to Woody Allen, "a certain intelligence governs our universe, except in certain parts of New Jersey."

But a recent Eagleton Poll reveals one of the best kept secrets of all time: that those who know best — New Jerseyans themselves — find a lot to like about living in New Jersey.

The survey, being released this month by the Eagleton Institute of Politics at Rutgers University, shows that:

- 62 percent of New Jerseyans rate their state "excellent" or "good" as a place to live, while only 27 percent rate it "only fair," and 9 percent rate it "poor." One percent are undecided.

- New Jerseyans give their own communities even more positive endorsements. Sixty-six percent evaluate their towns or cities positively ("excellent" or "good"), and 75 percent evaluate their neighborhoods positively.

- Although most New Jerseyans are even more positive about their towns and neighborhoods than they are about the state, there are exceptions. Lower income persons and those living in large cities, are all more positive about the state than about their communities.

Inferiority Complex? Further putting the state to the test, the Poll asked, "How would you rate New Jersey as a place to live compared to most other states?" Fully one-third of the 1,005 people questioned say New Jersey is better as a place to live, another one-third say it is about the same as other states, and only one out of five say it is worse. The rest have no opinion.

However, New Jerseyans themselves may be suffering from a collective inferiority complex. While almost two-thirds personally like living here, only a bare majority feel that other New Jerseyans are so inclined. When asked how they think their fellow residents would rate the state as a place to live, 51 percent feel that others would be positive, while 39 percent feel they would be negative, with 10 percent having no opinion.

Many of the naysayers seem to be confirmed cynics who apparently don't think much of life in any state. Even among those who rate New Jersey life negatively, 45 percent still rate New Jersey the same or better than other states.

Immigrants from other states show the enthusiasm of converts in their views of New Jersey. Among people who moved here within the past ten years, 68 percent are positive about their adopted state and 81 percent are positive about their neighborhoods.

Ex-New Yorkers Happy. Among the happiest New Jerseyans by far are ex-New Yorkers, who settled in the state in large numbers during the 1950's and 1960's. Of those who crossed the Hudson River into New Jersey, 73 percent give the state a positive rating. Almost half of the former New Yorkers — 46 percent — rate New Jersey as "better" than other states, 13 percentage points higher than state residents as a whole.

Those who have lived in New Jersey all their lives are slightly less positive than persons who migrated here about both their home state and their communities. Fifty-nine percent of native New Jerseyans rate the state "excellent" or "good." Native Garden Staters are also more likely than others to rate their state "worse than" than other states.

Satisfaction with New Jersey life also varies by race and by the region and type of area in which the respondent lives.

Residents of South Jersey, an area in transition from an older, rural way of life to a more suburban one, are more satisfied than those from the North or Central areas. Seventy-one percent of South Jerseyans give the state an "excellent" or "good" rating.

Eagleton Poll

as a place to live, as opposed to the 61 percent positive rating given by Central Jerseyans and 60 percent by North Jerseyans.

City Vs. Country. Rural-urban differences are even more striking. Sixty-nine percent of rural respondents rate the state positively, while only 20 percent rate the state as "only fair" and 10 percent as "poor." The remaining 1 percent are undecided.

By contrast, respondents from New Jersey's troubled cities are much less satisfied with the quality of life here. Among urbanites, 40 percent rate the state "excellent" or "good," 41 percent rate it "only fair," and 16 percent rate it "poor." The remaining 3 percent say they don't know.

These same urbanites feel equally little affection for their home cities and neighborhoods. Only 28 percent of urban respondents rate their city positively, while 42 percent say "only fair" and 30 percent say "poor." Their neighborhoods fare only somewhat better, with 43 percent of urbanites rating their neighborhoods positively, 35 percent giving "only fair" ratings and 21 percent -- one in five -- saying "poor." On the other hand, 82 percent of rural residents, 81 percent of suburbanites and 73 percent of town and small city dwellers rate their neighborhoods positively.

Blacks, concentrated mainly in these urban areas, are less happy than are other residents. While 64 percent of Whites rate the state positively, only 48 percent of Blacks are positive. Another 42 percent of Blacks rate the state "only fair" and nine percent rate it "poor."

Blacks and Whites seem to agree, however, in their assessment of New Jersey as compared to other states. Thirty-one percent of Blacks and 33 percent of Whites rate New Jersey as "much better" or "somewhat better" than other states. Only 17 percent of Blacks and 22 percent of Whites think the state is "somewhat worse" or "much worse" than other states. The rest think it is about the same or don't know.

This report is the first of a special eight-part series on the Eagleton Institute's study of "New Jersey Images." Other reports will focus on life in New Jersey, its satisfactions and dissatisfactions, the personal, social, and economic well-being of New Jerseyans, the media, and the public's ratings of public schools, politics and politicians.

The series is based on a statewide survey conducted between May 6 and May 13, when a scientifically selected random sample of 1005 adults, 18 years and older were interviewed by telephone.

NEW JERSEY IMAGES, PART II SATISFACTIONS AND DISSATISFACTIONS

For New Jerseyans, two images of their state exist side-by-side. The natural environment -- the ocean, shore, countryside, mountains -- is what a majority of New Jerseyans say they like most about their state. The man-made environment -- pollution, decaying cities, overindustrialization -- is what a majority say they like least.

The second report on "New Jersey Images" by the Eagleton Institute of Politics at Rutgers University reveals that when a statewide sample of 1005 adults were asked about what they like "most" about living in New Jersey, 58 percent mention the natural environment, 44 percent say the overall quality of life, 39 percent cite its location -- convenient to New York and Philadelphia -- and 12 percent mention the economy and economic opportunity. Less than 6 percent mention education, politics, and taxes.

When asked what they like least about living in New Jersey, the related concerns of environmental pollution and urban problems receive the most attention. One-third of those surveyed mention pollution and one-in-five cite urban problems such as urban flight and overcrowding. Other major complaints include taxes -- 25 percent -- traffic congestion and bad roads -- 18 percent -- politics and politicians -- 14 percent -- crime -- 9 percent -- and education -- 6 percent.

The pattern of satisfactions and concerns varies by the type of area and region in which the respondent lives.

Pollution, Crime Cited. Respondents from New Jersey's troubled cities -- those least satisfied with the quality of life in the state -- cite urban-related problems most often. Thirty-nine percent name pollution, 22 percent mention urban blight, and 32 percent complain about crime.

Seventeen percent are also unhappy with politics and politicians. On the positive side, city dwellers mention the overall quality of life -- 46 percent -- and the natural environment -- 30 percent -- as major sources of satisfaction. Only among urbanites did negative comments about the environment outnumber positive ones.

For suburbanites, the state's biggest assets are its environment, cited by 59 percent, and location, mentioned by 43 percent. Major dislikes included pollution -- 34 percent -- taxes -- 27 percent -- and urban problems -- 22 percent. Other negatives include traffic congestion and bad roads -- 17 percent --, the economy -- 12 percent, and politics and politicians -- 11 percent. In sharp contrast to their urban brethren, only 4 percent of suburbanites mention crime.

The environment's pros and cons are the most mentioned topic by persons at almost every income and education level. However, those with higher incomes and more education value New Jersey's proximity to New York and Philadelphia almost as much.

On the negative side, complaints about taxes, the environment and urban blight increase with income. While taxes are mentioned by 18 percent of New Jerseyans with annual incomes below $10,000, 35 percent of those with incomes above $20,000 complain about taxes. Upper income respondents are also twice as likely as lower income respondents to mention urban problems.

Blacks and Whites generally agree on the state's virtues but disagree somewhat on its liabilities. Blacks, concentrated mainly in urban areas, are most concerned about urban problems. Most often cited by Blacks are crime, transportation and traffic congestion. Among Whites, pollution is the most cited problem, followed by taxes and urban blight.

North Jerseyans are happier with the state's proximity to major urban centers than are South or Central Jerseyans. On the other hand, South Jerseyans are almost twice as likely to mention the state's natural environment as a source of satisfaction than North Jerseyans, by a margin of 79 percent to 46 percent.

The state's lagging economy and high unemployment received only scant mention. Only about one person in 10 cited the economy as a problem area.

This report is the second of a special eight-part series on the Eagleton Institute's study of "New Jersey Images." Other reports will focus on the personal, social and economic well-being of New Jerseyans, the media, and the public's rating of public schools, politics and politicians.

MATCHES CONCLUDED

By Soccer All-Star Teams.
All five Princeton Soccer Club All-star teams have finished matches for the spring season - the first full season of outside play.

The most successful was the youngest, 1966 squad which won 4 lost 2 and tied 2. Included was a tournament championship in The Princeton Soccer Club Invitational. A strong offense led by Mike Blaxill and Andy Bing and a good defense led by center back Chris Illick and goalie Steve Bordes were instrumental to the success.

Ebe Metcalf, Tim Watkins, and Dan Ronel were the top performers for the 1965 squad which ended with a 2-5-1 mark. The 1964 team fell slightly under .500 with a 3-4-1 record but received standout performances from Andy Hoedt, Jeff Henkel and Jim Scibetta.

The 1962 squad got excellent play from Jon Rush, Charlie Hatfield and Neil Tucker in posting a 1-2 log. The senior high club split its two games but distinguished itself by finishing second in The Metuchen Indoor and third in The Ursinus College Invitational tournaments. High School freshman Ron Celestin was a standout on the team.

MCCARTHY CHAMPION

In Men's Singles. The new men's singles champion of the Princeton Community Tennis Tournaments is Jack McCarthy, Jr., who defeated Keith Usiskin, 6-3, 6-3 in the finals.

The first seed, McCarthy reached the finals after defeating Henry Talbert and Usiskin downed second seed Steve Ebersole. Mark Knowlton repeated as the men's senior singles, this time defeating Norm Cromack, 6-4, 6-0.

The women's doubles are in process with final matches on Saturday. Men's doubles entries close this Thursday; entry forms should be at the Tennis Office, 71 University Place by noon. Play begins on Saturday.

PLAY TO BEGIN MONDAY

In Girls Tennis Tournament. Entries for the annual Princeton Girls Open here are due Monday.

This sanctioned Middle States Tennis Association tournament offers girls 18, 16, and 14 and under, singles and doubles events. Registered entrants should report to the University Church Courts on Monday, Tuesday in case of rain.

Sponsored by the Princeton Community Tennis Program, this year's tournament is under the direction of Dr. and Mrs. William Burks, 231 Russell Road. All entries should be mailed to the Burks.

Assisting the Burks will be Mrs. Gerard Thompson, housing; Mrs. D.C. Cullingham and Mrs. Jerome Rose, transportation; and, Mrs. Sanford Aronovic, hospitality. Referee for the tournament is Joseph Diefenbach, associate director of the Princeton Community Tennis Program.

Applications for the tournament may be obtained at the Tennis Office, 71 University Place.

NEXT YEAR IS HERE

For Roma Eterna. At the mid-season mark in the Princeton Youth Baseball Association's Little League, Roma Eterna, the league's cellar dweller last year is the front runner this year by two games with a 9-1 record.

Coach Sandy Bing, who took over the team this year, has Next: Racquetball!

Quidnet Company and DSV Associates, 32 Nassau Street, have announced the formation of a new company to erect a network of interlocking racquetball clubs throughout central and southern New Jersey.

Racquetball, thought to be the fastest growing sport in the United States, has more than three million participants, up from a few thousand several years ago. The game is a variation of squash and paddleball played with a mini tennis racquet on an indoor handball court.

The sport has achieved great popularity in the West and Midwest and has attracted a growing following in the East.

Financial sponsors of the new company are private investment firms with multi-million dollar capital resources supplied by various U.S. and European financial institutions. They hope to locate the first of several racquetball clubs in Lawrence Township and have applied for the appropriate permits for a site near I295.

Other sites in central and southern New Jersey are currently under consideration. The company plans to create a network that offers reciprocal playing privileges on all of its clubs.

combined the talents of several of last year's regulars with some new draft choices to blend the winning combination. Pitchers Kyle Stephens and Eddie Rice with catcher Geordie McLaughlin have proven to be a formidable battery.

The hitting and fielding have been supplied by Michael Blaxill, Andy Bing, Ned Desmond, Stephan Fletcher and Peter Hatfield. The team's only loss this season has been to the Princeton Italian-American Sportsmen Club.

The Eagles (7-3) climbed into second place with an 11-7 victory over third-place Elks. Chris Hunninghake was the winning pitcher when his team erupted for five runs in the last inning. He was supported in the field by the play of infielders Mike Petrone, Jason Petrone and Muskie Teresky.

The Elks (6-4), which lost its battle for second place, are led by pitcher Reid Horowitz and Eric Larsen.

Tied for fourth place with 5-5 records are PIASC and Post 76. PIASC has had an up and down season, losing a few close games when it failed to come up with the key hit. Steadily improving Mathew Tamasi has three wins for the club while hurler Ken Varvel has another.

A contender last year, Post 76 hopes to improve its record under coach Hack O'Neill in the second half of the season. Mickey Carnevale has been a standout hitter and pitcher for the team as have Terry Phox and Bruce O'Neill.

Engine No. 3 (4-6) has a collection of fine hitters in Scott Roberts, John Lysaker, John Schnatterly, Andy Stenard and Kurt DeJorg and may give some of the front runners a surprise before the season is over.

It's been a different year for Local 380 too, but for the worse. Last year's champions have found the competition tougher this summer and are in seventh place in the eight-team league with a 3-7 record. Despite the turnaround, Mooica Greenland, Ken McKellar, Chris Cassel and Tom Jones have been consistent performers.

In the cellar is Engine No. 1 whose lone win in ten outings has been against PIASC. The team is led at the plate by Jamie Van Raalte, Chris Hoover, Ralph Carnevale and Eddie Kim.

PRINCETON STALLED

In Legion Competition. Princeton Post 76 split two more games last week in the Mercer County American Legion League and thus failed again to gain any ground in the Northern Division.

On Saturday, Princeton lost a 2-1 decision to Bordentown, as the winning run scored on a Bob Hayes single, stolen base, overthrow and passed ball. Bordentown hurler Larry Burr limited the losers to four hits but lost his shutout in the final inning when second baseman Dave Robertson, who had half of Princeton's hits, doubled home Keith Greener who had reached base via an error. Al Kandell and Scott Thompson also hit safely for Princeton.

Princeton pitcher Steve Hulburt, touched for six hits, lost his second decision against one win; Burr's record is 3-2. The loss kept Princeton in fourth place in the five-team division with a 6-10 record. Bordentown is in third place in the Southern Division with a 9-7 mark.

Earlier in the week, Princeton stunned Ewing Post 314 when it sent five runs across in the final frame to snatch a 7-5 victory.

Keith Phox (1-1) had limited the league leaders in the Northern Division to three hits but one was a homer by Jeff Sumners and another a triple by Dave Dudeck. Ewing also capitalized on five Princeton errors.

Scott Thompson's triple sent the winning run across for Princeton. Robinson, who also tripled, had two hits as did Kandell off losing pitcher Mike Walters. In all, Princeton collected 10 hits.

ANOTHER 1-RUN LOSS

For Princeton Post 76. Despite six extra-base hits in its total of eight, Princeton Post 76 suffered its second a run in the final inning to nip Princeton, 8-7.

Down 7-2, Lawrence tied it in the fourth with a five-run outburst in the fourth and the score remained that way until the final inning. Second baseman Dave Robinson, who is hitting a ton for Princeton, had a double and home run in three at bats.

Also connecting for doubles for Princeton were Steve

Here's one of those ironic oddities that make sports so interesting ... In the first major league All-Star baseball game ever played, in 1933, the American League lineup had some of the greatest hitters of all-time such as Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig -- yet the man who batted in the first run in the history of All-star competition was not any of the great sluggers, but the weakest hitter on the team, pitcher Lefty Gomez ... Strange, isn't it?

Can you imagine a golfer making a hole-in-one, not just once, but on 2 CONSECUTIVE holes ... Has it ever happened? ... The answer is yes ... Amazingly enough, there have been several verified instances in golf history where a golfer has achieved this feat.

+++

Oddly enough, the 2 teams that led the National Football League in home attendance last season were not the Super Bowl teams or even teams with winning records ... Detroit led the league in attendance despite a 6-8 record ... And, the New York Giants, despite a 3-11 record, had the second-highest home attendance in the league.

If you're considering a Mercedes 280E, drive a Peugeot 604.

Like the Mercedes 280 E, the Peugeot 604 SL has four-wheel independent suspension, a responsive six-cylinder engine (ours is a V-6), power steering (ours is rack and pinion), a unitized body held together with thousands of welds, power windows, fully reclining front bucket seats, tinted glass, and meticulous attention to detail.

The Peugeot 604 has also been engineered for a superior level of comfort. With oversized shock absorbers, large coil springs, a floating differential, and seats that are actually tuned to the suspension system.

But comfort isn't the only thing that sets the 604 apart from the Mercedes. There's also the price. Which starts at about $11,000.* And which may be its most comforting feature of all.

HANDSOME YET HOMELIKE

Built at the turn of the century by an eminent Princetonian for his new bride, this lovely town house would thrill the heart of any bride, new or not so new! The grace of the period - high ceilings, beautiful woodwork, deep windows, and a magnificent circular staircase - is just as lovely to look at today, with the help of tasteful decorating and updating. The space that was originally there for large, well-staffed families gives today's owners flexibility to adapt the house for varying life styles. (Ask us for some ideas.)

Basically the house has 11 or 12 "important" rooms, with extras like dressing rooms, breakfast room, pantry-laundry, etc. for added comfort. Fireplaces are everywhere (almost no need to worry about winter heat!), while a delightful tile-floored sunporch invites cool summer relaxing. A choice of secluded "sitting out spots", a walled garden, lovely landscaping, and a low-maintenance half acre, round out the appeal of this handsome home.
